Board Gives Go Ahead to 18 Vote

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Election Commission voted Tuesday to go ahead with plans to implement in Arkansas the new federal law lowering the voting age to 18.

The states of Oregon and Texas filed suit in U.S. Supreme Court Monday to contest the constitutionality of the legislation. Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell told the commission that he planned to join the litigation either by a petition for intervention or a friend of the court brief.

The commission voted to take the steps to implement the law in event the courts uphold the constitutionality of the law.

The commission went on record to take the position that the law is constitutional until the courts rule otherwise.

The commission formed a committee that will study the law and propose legislation for submission to the commission's approval. The legislation then would be submitted to the legislature at its next session next year.

U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had written the state asking for a reply on whether Arkansas planned to take action to be in compliance with the law. Winthrop Rockefeller, called by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, was a result of Mitchell's letter. Doubts have arisen that Congress could lower the voting age to 18 by statute.

U.S. Air Is Evident in Cambodia

NEAR SKOUN, Cambodia (AP) — Any doubts that U.S. air power has been committed to saving Cambodian battalions in need of direct air support were swept aside today by seven American warplanes.

The air controller on the ground was a U.S. Special Forces-trained Cambodian officer whose radio technique and American slang were flawless.

After the air strikes, Cambodian troops recaptured part of the outskirts of Skoun, but heavy fighting still lay ahead. The town lies 40 miles north-east of Phnom Penh.

Rockefeller to Support Wm T. Kelley

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller says he is committed to support William T. Kelly of Little Rock in the contest for the Republican party state chairmanship.

Kelly, Charles Bernard of Earle and Everett A. Ham of North Little Rock are seeking the position.

The governor said he committed himself to Kelly, the Pulaski County GOP chairman, partly because Kelly was the first to ask for support, but also because "he had been one I had worked with a great deal."

Robert W. Faulkner, the governor's executive secretary, said he supported Kelly because Kelly's leadership would prove more progressive for the party.

The voting for state chairman will take place sometime after the Nov. 3 general election by the party officers, heads of party auxiliaries and committeemen and committeewomen from each of the 75 counties.

the Rio Grande, where downpours up to 30 inches set off massive floods on the heels of Hurricane Beulah in 1967. There were warnings of some flooding in low areas on the Rio Grande and the Nueces River, which flows into the Gulf here.

President Nixon declared the Corpus Christi area a major disaster area making federal money available to speed relief, soon after Gov. Preston Smith and others advised him of the crippling damage.

The designation paves the way for federal grants for the repair and reconstruction of public facilities and low-interest loans for the private sector.

Doctors and nurses came from Houston and other cities to help care for the injured—running into hundreds, although many escaped with minor hurts.

Hospitals suffered severe damage at neighboring Aransas Pass and at Robstown, west of here. Lighter blows were felt by the four hospitals in Corpus Christi and others in this vicinity. Army hospital units were set up at Aransas Pass and Ingleside.

Local officials reported widespread damage from Corpus Christi to Rockport, 30 miles up the coast, and in Port Aransas, Aransas Pass, Ingleside, Taft, Sinton, Matthis and Robstown.

The Red Cross reported about 65,000 families suffered losses. It said an estimated 8,950 homes were destroyed and 13,850 others dealt major damage. An urgent appeal for $6 million in relief funds was issued by Red Cross Chairman E. Roland Harriman.

George Hastings of the Office of Emergency Planning said after an aerial survey: "It's the worst hurricane damage I've seen, and I've seen them all since 1960."

Public services—electricity, telephones, water and sewer—were nonexistent or sharply curtailed, but there were hopes for improvement.

Restoration of electricity was expected today in downtown Corpus Christi. Power failed at 4:48 p.m. Monday as Celia snapped power lines. Officials said it might take two weeks to bring back full service in all parts of the city.

Warrants Issued for 16

City police raided City Park Youth Center in the early hours last Sunday morning for illegal amounts of beer and liquor and possession of an allegedly obscene film—Police Chief Willis announced today and warrants had been issued for 14 persons.

The warrants were against the following:

Floyd Turner Disturbing the peace, possession of over amount of taxed beer and liquor, possession of obscene films.

The following for disturbing the peace: Nimrod Shaw, Muriel Moss, Arthur Phillips, Robert Phillips, Mattie Block, Bertha Dennis, George Smith III, Amanda Harris, Aaron Taylor, Jerry Hamilton, Thomas Flenory, Bobby Ray Prater, George Prater.

Police acted upon information given them by an anonymous telephone call, moving in on the Youth Center about 1:30 a.m. The caller had said that a noisy drinking party was in progress.

Upon arrival the police said they found several people—men and women—and a quantity of beer, wine, and whisky, several hundred feet of allegedly obscene film, and a movie projector.

The investigating officers were John Shirley, James Purtle and Everett Edwards of the city police, and State Policemen Wallace Martin and Robert Neel. City attorney James H. Pilkinton also was present with the raiding officers.

Israel Endorses U.S. Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
By a vote of better than two to one, the Israeli parliament Tuesday night endorsed the government's acceptance of the American plan for a 90-day cease-fire and indirect peace negotiations with the Arabs.

Meanwhile, five Arab nations decided to go ahead with a meeting in Tripoli despite an Iraqi boycott, mortar fire from Lebanon wounded five Israeli teen-agers in a border settlement, and Israeli troops killed three Arab guerrillas on the Lebanese and Jordanian borders.

Before the 66-28 vote in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, Premier Gold Meir said Israeli troops would remain in Arab territory captured during the 1967 war until a binding peace agreement is reached.

Even then, she said, Israel "will not return to the 1967 borders" but will pull back to "secure, recognized and agreed boundaries to be determined in the peace agreement."

Withdrawal of Israeli troops from the captured territory is a stipulation of the U.N. Security Council resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, which is to serve as the basis of the new peace talks. But the Israelis have said repeatedly they will never surrender Old Jerusalem, the Arab sector of the city, and are also expected to insist on holding the Golan Heights, seized from Syria; the Gaza Strip, taken from Egypt; and possibly the Sinai coast past the Strait of Tiran, which overlooks the southern water route to Israel.

Israel also captured the Jordanian territory on the west bank of the Jordan River and the rest of the Sinai desert from Egypt.

Mrs. Meir said her government "continues to feel grave doubts" about Arab readiness to recognize Israel's right to exist. But she said the government feels it must not forego the new prospect for peace, "slight though it may be."

Deputy Premier Yigal Allon told the Knesset he believes the United States has checked the direct "Soviet involvement in Egypt" by making its opposition to this clear both in public statements and "through ways that were not published."

He said that while this did not get the Russians out of Egypt, "I assume it has determined very serious limits with regard to the future." He added that the Soviets probably would not have done as much as they have if the United States had taken its stand earlier.

The teen-agers were wounded in what the military command in Tel Aviv described as the heaviest mortar attack ever made on Metulla, a village on the eastern sector of the Lebanese frontier. The village has come under attack almost daily for a week, apparently from Arab guerrillas.

Defense attorneys said later they would consider a further mistrial motion based on their contention that the jury has been "tainted" by exposure to Nixon's statements, made to newsmen in Denver Monday.

"This is a massive kind of prejudice," said Paul Fitzgerald, attorney for Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, one of four defendants charged with killing Miss Tate and six others a year ago. He added: "What we want to analyze is what would happen if such a motion were granted. Would it be humanly possible to find a jury that hadn't been tainted by publicity?"

Older said that since Nixon's remarks were made he had ordered special precautions to protect jurors from exposure to the news reports. He had windows made opaque on buses that ferry jurors to court and ordered their access to telephones, radio and television suspended.

"I'm satisfied there has been no exposure," he said.

Shinn, attorney for Susan Atkins, 21, was the third defender to be jailed in the past week. Ronald Hughes, representing Leslie Van Houten, 20, was locked up for a night for making an obscene comment during a bench conference. Irving Kanarek, Manson's lawyer, spent a night in custody for numerous interruptions of the testimony of the state's star witness, Linda Kasabian. Shinn will be permitted to continue in court.

When Manson held up the paper—an early edition of Tuesday's Los Angeles Times—all attorneys were huddled at the bench in conference with the judge. Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron Stovitz spotted Manson and shouted: "Your honor!"

A bailiff quickly grabbed the paper from Manson.

Minutes later, Older called each juror separately to the witness stand to say under oath whether they'd seen the headline. All but two said they had seen at least part of it; 11 had read it all.

Only one juror said it might influence him "subconsciously," but added he hoped it would not. What did they think of the headline?

"I think if the President declared that, it was pretty stupid."

"It should sell newspapers."

"I didn't vote for Nixon in the first place."

"No one does my thinking for me."

Alternate John N. Ellis said he wasn't surprised by the headline—he said he had seen it on a newsstand while being driven back Monday night to the hotel where jurors are sequestered.

Shinn said he was responsible for newspapers reaching the counsel table.

Returning early from the lunch recess, Shinn said, he found the newspapers on a filing cabinet in the courtroom and assuming the front page had been removed, spread them out.

"I wanted to read the sports page," he said.

The judge reminded Shinn of a court order made at the bench forbidding newspapers in the area where the four defendants are seated or where the jury might see them.

Shinn protested that his error was "inadvertent" and he wasn't even sure Manson grabbed the headline page from that stack.

The judge said of Shinn: "His failure to obey it disrupted this trial and jeopardized this trial." He added, "So that the record is perfectly clear, my feeling is that this was a willful and deliberate contempt with full knowledge."

Hughes rose to further defend his colleague, but the judge, scooping up his papers, declared, "This court is in recess," and made a hasty exit.

Mixed Drink Bill Doesn't Arouse Votes

By TOMMY YATES
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas has had a local-option mixed-drink law for more than a year now but the anticipated rush for voting on the cocktail issue failed to materialize.

Garland and Pulaski counties and the cities of Little Rock and Eureka Springs are the only areas to approve the dispensing of cocktails. The mixed-drink issue has been voted down at Texarkana, West Memphis, Blytheville and Fort Smith.

State Alcoholic Beverage Control Director Joe Gaspard said, however, he was surprised that West Memphis and Texarkana did not approve the sale of mixed drinks in elections last year. There has been no election on the cocktail issue this year.

The 1969 law provides for the sale of mixed drinks in certain hotels, motels and restaurants.

Gaspard said he thought West Memphis would have approved the issue as a competitive effort because cocktails were being served across the river in Memphis.

Texarkana surprised him, he said, because it was a border city where the Texas side was dry. A city or county that votes down the proposal must wait one year before the issue can be voted on again. However, if a city defeats the measure, then the county could immediately call for an election and "It would seem to me (the cities) would be able to take note of the fact that this has not been detrimental to society in those places where mixed drinks are legal," he said.

In fact, Gaspard said, the mixed-drink law has "worked out very well" and "made for better law enforcement." He said problems to the ABC had been less than he had expected.

Reunion Day for Family Aug. 9

The third annual observance of Family Reunion Day will be held Sunday, Aug. 9, throughout the United States and Canada, according to K. G. Hamilton, president of the Kiwanis Club of Hope.

Family Reunion Day, which is being sponsored jointly by Kiwanis International and Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, is a program for all people, Mr. Hamilton said. Its purpose is to dramatize the family as the keystone of the nation's strength and morality, he added.

He went on to explain that people in both the United States and Canada are being encouraged to plan old-fashioned family get-togethers, dinners and picnics. There is no formal, nationwide program. Instead, it is hoped that individual families will use Family Reunion Day to become better acquainted; to "get the family up-to-date" on addresses, birthdays, anniversaries, deaths, and significant events; to arrange patriotic activities; to familiarize young members of the family with sacred historical documents; and to emphasize the role of children as the heirs and potential leaders of the future.

West had two chances to wake up with today's hand. He might have done so in winter but, with that summer sleeping sickness, he slumbered right through the entire defense.

He noted his partner's play of the eight of spades at trick one but didn't bother to see that the eight was the lowest spade missing. It was an eight! His partner wanted him to continue. He did.

South ruffed that second spade, drew trumps with two leads, cashed three diamonds, ruffed his last diamond in dummy and dummy's last spade in his own hand.

Now he finally had to attack clubs. He led the deuce. West played the five. The five was higher than the deuce and, anyway, you are supposed to play second hand low.

South played dummy's eight and showed his hand to East. East could take that club trick all right but he was end-played. He could only get one trick more and he needed two to defeat the contract.

Without that attack of sleeping sickness, West might well have shifted to the jack of clubs at trick two. That lead would be the winner as long as his partner held the ace and queen of clubs. Or he might well have seen what was happening later on and played the jack of clubs on South's deuce. That would require East to hold ace-queen-10 but East did hold those cards.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

HONESTY UNHINGES DECETIFUL MAN

Dear Helen:

I can't remember when my husband hasn't had a little something going on the side. I pretend I don't know because it's easier that way. He pretends he doesn't know I know, also because it's easier. We're victims of what you, Helen, once called "marriage drift." A fight would be unthinkable. We don't care that much—except about our only mutual achievement: Our daughter, Debra.

Now suddenly our quiet, obedient Debra has announced she will live with her boy friend at college next year, but marriage is out of the question ... "Look what it has done to you two!"

When my husband blew sky high she reminded him that she at least was honest, and he was more concerned with appearances than what happened to her anyway. The bitterness silently building over the years all poured out and I learned that I had not only wasted my life but perhaps ruined hers by trying to build a home on pretense. I realize that we had never really talked, any more than my husband and I had talked about anything more important than the weather.

A perfect picture of marriage drift and what it does to children, Helen! We can't stop Debra. She's of age. But how can I make her see that all marriage isn't deadly? —DRIFTER

Dear Drifter:

Is your marriage so completely dead that you can't revive it? This confrontation has at least made you aware of each other. Who knows: Caring might follow, though at first there'll be more fights than love.

When Debra (hopefully) sees a change at home, she may change her attitude toward marriage. It will take time and, as you say, you must let her work it out her own way. Meanwhile, concentrate on a new husband-wife relationship. Mainly, get honest: Learn how to talk! —H.

(P.S. And read on.)

Dear Helen:

Many divorced women say to me, "You don't know what it's like to be lonely." As if married women were never lonely! How about the nights when an argument left the space in the middle of the bed wide enough to build a high-rise apartment building. You've read all the articles about making up before you go to sleep, but knowing you should and doing it aren't the same. This last fight was just too steep. You can't take it any more. Next morning you wake up knowing you're going to be a name and number filed under interlocutory.

But then, if you're brave and wise, you kiss your husband goodbye and hope he has a nice day. It isn't easy because you're still smoldering from what you still consider all his fault. Maybe he humiliated your child before a friend, or drank too much again, or perhaps there's a new baby in the house and he made horrible remarks about the pigsty and awful, late meals, though he didn't raise a hand to help, (or so it seemed). For whatever reason, you couldn't forget or forgive, but you still gave him that kiss, while inside all you wanted to do was be out of the house for good before he got home that night.

And you're lonely all day. And by evening, when he brings a bouquet he picked in the neigh-

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Shiloh Ranch has had four owners in nine years, but that doesn't mean the grazing is poor or the water bad on the Medicine Bow spread. It is part of a general face-lifting designed to broaden the appeal of "The Virginian."

Lee J. Cobb, who played the first owner, quit when his contract expired and was succeeded by Charles Bickford. John McIntire became the owner when Bickford was taken ill.

Now, as part of a general reorganization of the 90-minute series, NBC will have Stewart Granger as the fourth ranch owner for the family-style Western which has been renamed "The Men from Shiloh."

NBC is promoting it as a new show, but some familiar faces will be around. James Drury will continue to play the ranch foreman, "The Virginian," even though he has lost the title role. Doug McClure, sporting a large mustache and looking a little older, will still play Trampas, the top hand.

The period of the show has been updated to the 1890s to give the writers a new era for stories.

Two regulars are added as co-stars—Lee Majors, late of "The Big Valley," as a wrangler, and Granger, the bronzed, white haired British film star, plays a retired British colonel.

Each of the three younger stars will star in his own productions three independent crews are working simultaneously—and Granger, who also has his share of stories, will appear in all episodes.

Granger, a breezy, informal man, became an American favorite 20 years ago in his first Hollywood film, "King Solomon's Mines," but in recent years he has lived in Geneva and London.

"I wrote a script for a film and brought it to Hollywood myself," he said during rehearsals this week. "It was a nice old-fashioned sexy story with lots of action. But it didn't have any drugs, naked women, student riots or racial problems. Obviously it would have absolutely no appeal to audiences between 15 and 22—who seem to be the only ones producers believe attend motion pictures these days. "Anyway, they called and asked me how I'd like to spend 20 weeks making Westerns. I said I would if I could play my character as an Englishman. So here I am, and I must say it is not the most amusing thing in the world trying to turn out one film a week."

"I'm in all of the shows—I have some stories of my own, of course—but I function as the cement that keeps the series together."

QUESTION: I became disabled last week. When should I file application for disability insurance benefits?

ANSWER: If your condition is such that you will be unable to work for at least 12 months, you should apply immediately.

QUESTION: What is the advantage in applying early for disability benefits since I understand there is a 6 months waiting period involved?

ANSWER: First, it will protect your past, present, and future rights to benefits. Secondly, it will permit more prompt processing of your application and payment may then be made as soon as the waiting period has expired.

QUESTION: Of what use is social security to me since I am young and working?

ANSWER: You are protected in that a source of income is available should you become unable to work because of injury or illness. If you are married you are also building up financial protection for your family in case of death or disability. And, over the long haul, you are building up credits toward a more and more substantial retirement income.

QUESTION: If I become disabled, can my wife and two small children also receive financial help from social security?

ANSWER: Yes, the disability

Introducing the lowest-lead, highest-octane gasoline for the money. Anywhere.

New Big Plus.

We've taken lead out, kept the octane high. And we've priced it below premium.

To help clean the air.

Cleaning the air is the biggest thing we wanted to accomplish. So we took lead out of Big Plus. Actually, there wasn't that much lead to begin with. One-and-a-half cc's of tetraethyl lead, less than an eyedropper-full in a gallon. Now we've removed one cc of that. To make Big Plus 99.98% lead-free on a volume basis.

Then we doubled the amount of engine-cleaning detergent, to reduce exhaust emissions even more.

It all adds up to this: Big Plus can cut automotive air pollution from your car significantly. Right now.

9 out of 10 drivers can use Big Plus without worrying about engine knock.

Big Plus is high in octane.

It has what engineers call a 'research octane' rating of 96. Octane, of course, is not the only guide to choosing a gasoline. But it's important.

Big Plus will work perfectly in cars that don't have real high-compression engines. Cars that do should use our premium gasoline, Esso Extra.

There are 83,000,000 cars on the road today. What we've done is to make Big Plus an anti-pollution gasoline that 9 out of 10 drivers of today's cars can use without worrying about engine knock. And it'll be good for the 1971 cars, too.

Why we didn't take out all the lead.

We could have, of course. But engine testing shows that some lead is needed to prevent possible valve damage.

So we left the minimum amount in. And still made a cleaner gasoline. Try it soon. And help your car run clean.

There may be other questions about gasoline you'd like answered.

So we've prepared a comprehensive brochure. You can get it free at Esso stations. Or write Humble's Consumer Affairs office, Box 2180, Houston, Texas 77001.

Trying to Solve Trade Bill Dispute

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — House tax writers are trying to solve bitter disputes over a trade bill by granting President Nixon broad authority to impose or suspend quotas on imports worrying U.S. industries.

Sources said the bill nearing completion will specify quotas on textile articles and footwear. But, under tentative agreements reached in the House Ways and Means Committee, Nixon would have wide discretion in suspending them on particular items or on the output of particular countries. He could do this either on the basis that the designated imports were not disruptive, or on largely unspecified grounds of national interest.

The national interest exception, the source said, would be broad enough to permit lifting quotas on articles whose price rose sharply in this country. Some of the opposition to the bill comes from consumer groups who fear that cutting down the supply of inexpensive foreign goods will speed the cost-of-living spiral in the United States.

Foreign policy considerations also were cited, including pending negotiations with Spain over U.S. military bases there. Shoe exports are important to the Spanish economy.

The committee also is trying to give final shape to a "basket clause" to authorize restrictions, including quotas, on any other foreign goods threatening the health of U.S. industries.

A tentative agreement was reported to authorize the President to act without waiting for Tariff Commission studies. He would take these into account later in determining whether to continue or modify any restrictions he might impose.

L. Alworth May Declare Bankruptcy

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tight money and poor investments, not an inability to catch a football, caused Lance Alworth's retirement from the San Diego Chargers.

That was the evaluation today of Alworth's lawyer, Don Augustine.

Alworth, an American Football League all-star every year since 1963, made no official announcement of his plans to quit the game. Augustine made the "official" announcement.

"There's a real strong possibility that he will declare personal bankruptcy soon," Augustine said. "He made some poor investments and over extended himself. And you can't do that in this tight money market."

Alworth's retirement came because he was offered a more lucrative position with International Sports Associates of Phoenix, Ariz., Augustine said. The firm also employs other former sports stars.

In Phoenix, ISA head Anthony J. Nicolli confirmed Alworth's plans.

Sextuplets Born in Rome But 4 Die

ROME (AP) — A plumber's wife who had taken a fertility drug gave birth to sextuplets Tuesday night. Four died early today and a doctor said the outlook for the other two was "not rosy."

The three boys and three girls were born to Mrs. Loredana Luzzitelli Petrone, 35, who had been childless for 11 years of marriage. They were three months premature, and the doctors said two boys and two girls died during the night.

More than 20 sets of sextuplets have been reported born in other countries since 1900, and the rate has increased since the taking of fertility drugs became widespread. The Petrone babies and the babies born on May 21 to Mrs. Martin Danoff of New York are believed to be the only sexuplets all born alive. All six of the Danoff babies died within seven hours.

The largest of the Petrone babies weighed 1.9 pounds and the smallest 1.4 pounds.

Effect of Pornography Is Discounted

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's Commission on Pornography has reached the tentative conclusion that obscenity does not cause sex crimes or corrupt youngsters' morals.

Discounting two overriding fears of effects of the current wave of sexual freedom in films, books and magazines, the first draft prepared by the commission staff says:

"There is no evidence to suggest that exposure (of youngsters) to pornography has a detrimental impact upon moral character, sexual orientation or attitudes."

Research indicates that erotic materials do not contribute to the development of character defects, nor operate as a significant factor in antisocial behavior or in crime. In sum, there is no evidence that exposure to pornography operates as a cause of misconduct in either youths or adults.

The commission's report is not to be released until late this month, but most of the first draft has been leaked to a House subcommittee that is trying to whip up hearings to challenge the findings next week.

Other major findings in more than 300 pages of the report obtained by The Associated Press—all subject to revision or deletion from the final report:

—Women as well as men are "highly aroused" by stag films and erotic pictures. Tests often showed that women who did not think they were aroused actually were.

—Political conservatives are not as easily aroused by pornography as liberals.

—Despite the arousal and in some cases increased sexual activity in the 24 hours after seeing highly erotic material, basic attitudes and sexual patterns do not change.

—In general, 90 per cent of couples aged 20 to 25 were aroused by erotic films in three studies, while between 30 and 60 per cent of persons 40 to 50 years of age were aroused by the same films.

—There are no recorded instances of sexual aggression, homosexuality, lesbianism, exhibitionism, or sexual abuse of children attributable to reading or viewing erotic stimuli among the several hundred participants in the twelve experiments reviewed.

The 18-member presidential commission of experts approved by Congress two years ago to conduct a $2 million investigation of the effects of pornography reportedly has not approved any of the report and much of it is to be rewritten.

But the major two findings, that pornography does not cause sex crimes or corrupt minors, reportedly were still in the draft report as of Tuesday.

While the House postal operations subcommittee is trying to line up expert witnesses to challenge the findings, Chairman Robert N. C. Nix, D-Pa., said his concern is with some of the experiments conducted.

Nix termed "horrifying" an experiment conducted for the commission by the University of North Carolina, in which instruments were used to measure the physical responses of 23 college men to prolonged exposure to erotic material.

"I didn't dream such experiments were being conducted," Nix said. "I question the morals of people who do that kind of thing. I can't see any justification for it."

The report says imprisoned sex offenders studied have histories of sexual repression as youngsters in strict families, and suggests that, and not stimulation by pornography, is what leads them to sex crimes.

The finding that pornography does not corrupt youngsters' morals, the report says, is not based on actual study of youngsters under 18 because of the sensitivity against such studies.

Urban Renewal Told Kiwanis by M. Kelly

MIKE KELLY

On a program arranged by Kiwanian Bill Butler, Mike Kelly, executive director of the Local Housing Authority and Urban Renewal, was the guest speaker at Tuesday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Kelly stated that on May 13 this year, after three years of planning and work, Hope had received its first approval of an Urban Renewal project; $2,398,000 has been set aside for this project which covers 77 acres, covering the downtown area and considerable residential property South of the MOP. Railroad.

A Project Area Committee made up of property owners and tenants within the project has been formed to assist in a study of the needs. Invitations were mailed to all known landlords and tenants in the area, some 200 in number, and 47 of these people have agreed to serve on the committee.

In the designated area all kinds of dwellings as well as business housing are to be found. There are those more than meeting the standards, those barely meeting the standards, those that are sub-standard but repairable, and those that need to be removed or replaced.

"Urban Renewal is a cooperative program of the Federal Government, the State, and the Community," said Mr. Kelly, "and there are now in the United States approximately one thousand communities, large and small, participating in the program."

Guests at Tuesday's Kiwanis meeting were Dick Powell and Hubert Thrash.

Cole Calls His Interviews From Russia 'Dead Story'

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — William Cole, the correspondent responsible for a CBS News special report "Voices from the Russian Underground," said he was not too impressed with what he did.

The report, seen by millions of viewers last week, featured filmed interviews with three Soviet intellectual dissenters, describing repression in the Soviet Union.

Cole, a native of Conway said he regarded the report as a "Dead story." Much of the free world, however, will see the news special through arrangements with CBS.

A metropolitan newspaper story clipping sent to Cole termed the CBS show "virtually unmatched in TV history." Cole, in discounting the analysis, said, "It's not all that exciting."

But whether to bring the filmed interviews back to U.S. television audiences resulted in much soul-searching on Cole's part.

When he was expelled last month by the Soviet government for what was described as "activities incompatible with the status of a foreign journalist," he had served two years as Moscow bureau chief for CBS.

Cole didn't ask for specifics from Soviet officials when he received the expulsion notice. "I didn't say a thing except goodbye."

Once back in the U.S., Cole still had the option of not releasing the stories of author Andre Amalrik, writer Vladimir Bukovsky and historian Pyotr Yakir.

"Yes, I could have thrown the films away if I had wanted to—as a matter of fact I thought about it several times, but they said they wanted the outside world to know of what's happening here, regardless of the risk to us."

"I hesitated a long time before filming these interviews," Cole recounted. "Once, I even tried to dissuade them from going ahead, knowing what the consequences might be for them, but they are all determined that they would speak out."

As to who proposed the interviews, Cole said he wasn't sure. "I really don't know whose idea it was—we sort of talked about it for six or eight months and all of a sudden we did it. They were all for it."

The subjects in the interviews are not well known in Russia, Cole said, because the press is completely closed.

"People who don't agree with the regime are never mentioned—unless they're denounced," he said. "But among Soviet intellectuals who dare think out loud" the three are widely known.

The interviews were made "in places where we thought we weren't bugged," Cole said. In one case, Cole went so far as to conduct an interview in a secluded wood outside Moscow.

The three Russian intellectuals told Cole they assumed they were going to be arrested and wanted their stories told. Four reels of film taken by Cole were confiscated by the Russians when Cole left Moscow on vacation.

Cole, who arrived in Conway Friday to visit his mother, Mrs. S. D. Cole, plans to leave within a few days to rejoin his family in Paris.

He doesn't know what will be his next CBS assignment. "I've got about six weeks off and I'm going to try not to think about it," he said.

As to the three Soviet intellectuals, Cole said he would be able to maintain contact through friends in journalism. He hasn't heard directly or indirectly from them since last week's telecast.

In evaluating Amalrik, Bukovsky and Yakir, Cole said: "I think they're the bravest people I ever knew—really physically brave; terribly courageous, because they really don't have a fight. They're going to be ground down by that machine—they'll be smashed and they knew it. They're just martyrs. I think it's the bravest thing I've ever seen."

Cole is a Conway High School and Hendrix College graduate who has spent most of the past 18 years abroad in Paris, the Middle East and in the Soviet Union as a teacher, student, press attaché, free-lance writer and press correspondent. His deceased father was a former Conway mayor.

Cole didn't want to discuss how he got the filmed interviews out of the Soviet Union. "There are ways to get anything out of any country, regardless of how tightly closed it is," he said.

$55,000 Farm Subsidy Limit Is Endorsed

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and the House Agriculture Committee have endorsed a $55,000-per-crop limit on farm subsidies but chances of passing a ceiling that high are rated no better than even.

Some House members are holding out for a $20,000 limit. There is no limit in present law on how much a farmer can get from the federal government for not growing crops.

President Nixon jumped into the fray Tuesday by supporting the $55,000 limit approved by the Agriculture Committee for each of the cotton, feed grains and wheat categories.

Despite the President's opposition, Reps. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., and Paul Findley, R-Ill., forged ahead with their bipartisan drive for the $20,000 figure for the same three crops plus wool. They also want to make sure the law is not evaded through such tactics as subdivision of farms.

The controversy over the payment limitation has been the chief one surrounding the committee-approved three-year major farm bill to which the $55,000 ceiling is attached.

The existing farm program expires at the end of the year.

House Democratic farm leaders agreed Tuesday to put the bill back on today's docket after a Nixon letter to Rep. Page Belcher, R-Ola., ranking GOP member of the House committee, outlined the chief executive's position.

House Democratic Whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana said, however, that he didn't consider Nixon's stand a firm one. "He's on both sides," Boggs told the House.

In the letter, Nixon said he subscribes to the analysis by the House committee and his secretary of agriculture, Clifford Hardin, "that too low a limitation would make it impossible for many farm producers to participate efficiently in the program."

"You may, therefore, inform your colleagues," he wrote Belcher, "that despite the obvious appeal of a lower limit, for these technical reasons I must prefer the limitation proposed by your committee."

The 184 House Republicans still were divided on the payment issue after Nixon's letter was read during a closed meeting Tuesday which preceded debate on the bill.

WR Hopes to Win Without Runoff

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Tuesday that he hoped he could win the Republican gubernatorial nomination without a runoff.

Rockefeller, at a Little Rock news conference, predicted that 75,000 to 100,000 persons would vote Aug. 25 in the Republican primary, more than double the 30,000 who cast ballots in the GOP election in 1968.

Rockefeller said there would be a much greater turnout this year because it is important the GOP primary be "meaningful." In addition, he said the Republicans would have contested county and district races this year, creating more local interest.

Rockefeller said he was running on his record.

He said he thought the three main issues in the race were the Democratic candidacy of former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, the state prisons and the "financial structure" in the state.

Asked about Faubus' remark Monday that the biggest mistake he ever made was appointing Rockefeller to the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, Rockefeller said: "His modesty amazes me if he finds that was the greatest mistake he ever made."

House Democratic Whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana said, however, that he didn't consider Nixon's stand a firm one. "He's on both sides," Boggs told the House.

In the letter, Nixon said he subscribes to the analysis by the House committee and his secretary of agriculture, Clifford Hardin, "that too low a limitation would make it impossible for many farm producers to participate efficiently in the program."

"You may, therefore, inform your colleagues," he wrote Belcher, "that despite the obvious appeal of a lower limit,

Inmates Want Sentences Set Aside

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two Cummins Prison inmates testified in U.S. District Court here Tuesday that they didn't have legal representation when they pleaded guilty March 25, 1969, in Drew County Circuit Court to six felony charges.

Otis H. Reed Jr., 25, and William E. Coulter, 24, both of Monticello have filed for a writ of habeas corpus seeking to have their 21-year sentences set aside on the ground that their guilty pleas were coerced.

Coulter and Reed said that when they appeared in court in Drew County, Judge G. B. Colvin Jr. told them that he had agreed with Deputy Prosecutor James Ross of Monticello to give them 21 years if they pleaded guilty to the six counts. They said the judge threatened to "stack" six 21-year sentences for a total of 126 years if they went to trial and were convicted.

The U.S. Supreme Court's traditional practice of releasing decisions only on Mondays has been abolished.

Says New Antimissile Soon Obsolete

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate foes of the Safeguard antimissile program say newly-released House testimony proves that it will be obsolete before the system is fully operable.

Pentagon officials are quoted as telling a House subcommittee in late April that they've already started work on a more accurate replacement for Safeguard.

Those comments bolstered Senate critics as they struck up debate keyed to the theme that the Safeguard system would be inadequate to defend the U.S. land-based missile force from new Soviet attack missiles.

On the other hand, say the opponents, the Pentagon told the House panel that the missiles of Project Hardtite, on which $6 million already has been spent, would be able to do the job—even if the Soviets improve their missiles further, such as equipping them with multiple warheads.

Candidate Cheek Fights Left Wing

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) —The paragraph on the front of W. S. Cheek's small campaign folder probably sums up the candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination:

"I, as a parent of a son and two teen-age daughters, am deeply concerned with the obvious attempt to further the liberal left wing revolutionary plan to destroy the moral fiber of our youth by so-called intellectuals who teach and advocate complex system. Some senators have asked why they should be asked to approve a system that will, grant the expected improvements in Russian rocketry, be obsolete before it is finished.

a revolt against authority, including the use of drugs and 'non violent' burning and looting, in the name of 'academic freedom.' I promise that the laws of decency, morality and Arkansas will be enforced when I am governor."

Cheek, 48, entered the Democratic primary after surveying the candidates.

"I earnestly went out and looked for a candidate that I could conscientiously support, and I couldn't find one," he said.

He says Hayes C. McClerkin of Texarkana and Dale Bumpers of Charleston are both "ultra-left-wing" and that Robert C. Compton of El Dorado and James C. Malone Jr. of Lonoke "don't even enter into the picture."

Cheek says Bill Wells of Hermitage has a "beautiful radio announcer's voice, and this is about all I can say . . . He's a mugwump as far as issues are concerned."

Joe Purcell, Cheek believes, was a "political accident." Purcell was elected attorney general in 1966, defeating Bruce

Bennett in a runoff, and Cheek says "when an incumbent gets into a runoff, almost always he gets defeated."

Former Gov. Orval E. Faubus is the target of Cheek's severest criticism.

"I am thoroughly convinced that Orval Faubus sold out the Democratic party in 1966 by telling enough of the state employees and department heads that if (Gov. Winthrop) Rockefeller was defeated they would lose their jobs," Cheek said.

"He was responsible for the sellout of the Democratic party and now he's got the brass or gall to come back and ask the people of Arkansas to make him the Democratic nominee again," Cheek said.

He also says Faubus' popularity reached a peak when he announced as a candidate and that he can only backslide.

Cheek does not reserve his criticism for Democrats. He says Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican who is seeking a third term, does not understand the people of the state.

"The government of Arkansas is the biggest business in the state of Arkansas and I think we need a businessman to be governor of the state and operate it in a businesslike manner," Cheek said. "If it weren't for his (Rockefeller's) inherited millions, he couldn't operate a popcorn stand."

Cheek is outspoken on the penitentiary system and private schools.

He feels the prison system is not being operated properly and wants to turn the penitentiary "back into a penitentiary, not a rest home with visiting privileges."

He says persons who send their children to private or parochial schools should be given a tax break and that a commission should be established to advise persons on establishing, accrediting and operating private schools.

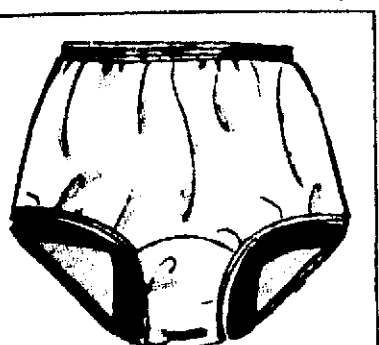

The parents of children who attend private or parochial schools should be allowed tax credits on their state income tax "in relation to the amount of money that they put into the private schools," he says.

On taxes, Cheek said he does not intend to raise taxes during his first term.

THE DOCTOR SAYS X Rays Are Great Aid In Modern Medicine

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

It is 75 years since X rays were discovered in Germany. Shortly thereafter, an American legislator introduced a bill prohibiting the use of X rays in opera glasses but the bill died in committee. Gradually it was learned what this "invisible light" could and could not do. Now we take this modern miracle for granted.

The realization that X-ray films could show us bones, teeth and metals but not soft tissues was an advantage in that they aided in the diagnosis of bone tumors, fractures, dental cavities and metallic foreign bodies. They could not, however, tell us anything about the digestive tract, kidneys or blood vessels until it was found that they would give us the outlines of these organs when an opaque fluid was introduced into them. Later, some of the hollow organs were caught on film when air was used instead of an opaque contrast medium.

When X rays had been used for only a short time it was found that they had great powers for destroying tissue. Although the early consequences were tragic, this, too, was turned to an advantage in the treatment of malignant tumors.

Today's modern equipment is a vast improvement over the crude units in use 50 years ago, both from the standpoint of greater aid in diagnosis and greater safety for both patient and technician. The latter has been accomplished through better screening and shortening of the exposure time.

Makes His 1st Political Campaign

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

HUGHES, Ark. (AP)—At the age of 51, Hubert Blanton is seeking his first political office. Blanton, a Hughes businessman, is the American Party in Arkansas candidate for lieutenant governor. He was nominated at the party's June 6 convention.

"I didn't take it (the nomination) too well to begin with, but I got so much encouragement from the home people," Blanton said. "Now, I'm really enjoying it."

Blanton has made several political rallies around the state and says the reception has been "very good, beyond expectations."

"I think we have an excellent chance to win," he said. "The people are looking for something else."

Blanton understands those persons who are not satisfied with what the Democratic and Republican parties have to offer.

He said he voted for Republican Barry Goldwater in the 1964 presidential election and then became "so dissatisfied with the Rockefeller bunch that I just got on the George Wallace bandwagon." Blanton was among those who helped organize the American Party in Arkansas in April 1968.

The party must receive 15 percent of the vote in a statewide race to retain its status as a party.

"I think we could get that without campaigning," Blanton said.

Blanton says he believes the lieutenant governor's responsibilities should be increased.

"I think the lieutenant governor could be a good public relations man for the state of Arkansas and we would have the time to do it," he said. "He could promote tourism by going out of the state and making speeches."

Blanton said he did not think he would have any difficulty presiding over the Senate, a duty of the lieutenant governor.

"I have some friends in the Senate that I am sure would help me," he said. "If you want to do a good job bad enough, you'll learn how to do it."

The administration of Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has had problems dealing with a largely Democratic legislature, but Blanton says he does not think the APA would have such problems.

"We're different type people (than those in office)," he said. "We're down to earth people. We know how to talk to the average man. We wouldn't talk over their heads."

Blanton says the candidates for lieutenant governor should "tell the people how they stand on schools and taxes because they could become governor."

Blanton said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has taken the schools away from the local school boards.

"HEW runs the schools now and it shouldn't be like that," he said.

On taxes, he said the normal economic growth of the state should supply the funds necessary for state operations. He also said there were inefficiencies in state government that could be eliminated.

Blanton said that most of the money used in his campaign had come out of his own pocket.

"We haven't been eaten up with money but I expect contributions to increase after the primaries," he said. "I'm going to offer myself and let the people provide the support."

Blanton moved to Arkansas 34 years ago after graduating from high school in Mississippi. He is married to the former Kate Yerby of Henderson, Tenn., and they have two children.

Mrs. Purcell in Background of Campaign

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Helen Purcell, 46, says she is not a "moving force" in the campaign of her husband, Joe Purcell, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. She says she is in the "background" of the campaign and helps whenever she can.

However, for Mrs. Purcell's fifth grade class at Benton, she is very much in the foreground.

She said she has not talked about politics in the classroom and that the day Purcell announced he was running for office, she simply did not come to school.

When she returned, her class was eager to discuss her husband's candidacy.

One of the students asked what he was running for and a student in the front row piped up with the answer — "more money."

Another student requested that Mrs. Purcell be sick the day the class visited the governor's mansion, she would be there to greet them.

But Mrs. Purcell has not decided whether she will teach next year and says that it will depend on the primaries.

On the campaign trail, Mrs. Purcell says she rarely talks politics but leaves that for her husband.

"He's the candidate," she said.

She says she enjoys the political rallies but she said there are less rallies than when she was growing up in Prescott. Her father was elected Prescott city marshal and Nevada County sheriff, so rallies were part of her childhood.

But with political coverage by the various news media, she said the interest in the rallies has declined. At one time, attending a rally was the only way a voter had to know the candidates.

Changing the date of the primary also has affected the rallies, Mrs. Purcell said. She said some rallies are now scheduled for the hottest season in Arkansas, and the voters are reluctant to leave their air-conditioned homes to hear the candidates.

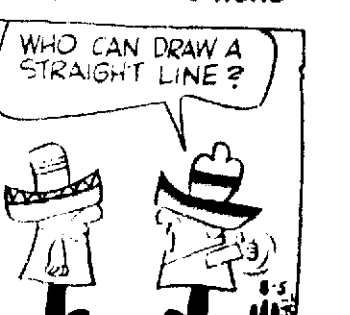

She said that due to the number of candidates who have filed for the main offices, people are more confused.

She said voters normally have their minds made up by July, but she does not think this is true now.

Mrs. Purcell speaks to women's groups when asked, but says, although she enjoys it, she speaks "just when necessary."

At the rallies, Mrs. Purcell says she listens to the speeches just as the voters would, but she says Purcell does not practice his speeches before the family.

No Time To Find Things Went Wrong

The nation's interstate highways are cracking under the strain of heavy truck traffic. Some $200 million has been spent so far just to repair, as well as possible, the cracking undergone by the superhighways due to the tons of truck weight which passes over them daily. That may only be the beginning of the repair bills needed to keep the super roadways in some semblance of good shape. The price tag on repairs could go much, much higher before too long.

A report from the General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog, said the cracks came from improper design of roads due to misjudgment of such factors as bad weather, underlying soil and truck weights. Now they tell us. After spending millions and millions and millions just to get the system built, a misjudgment, or several misjudgments, cause the roads to deteriorate.

Concerning truck weights, there had been much talk at one time about allowing trucks to use only non-primary highways, such as the abandoned federal highways which usually run in directions similar to interstates. In this way, the heavier traffic would have been kept off the expensive roads and placed onto secondary highways which would lead to the same destination.

Again we are faced with a bungled job, only this time it concerns, not a distant war on a nebulous thing like inflation, but something we see and experience every day. That could make a difference in the public's reaction to a situation which should never have evolved. — Crowley (La.) Daily Signal

11 Die in Blaze at Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Eleven men, most of them elderly, died in a blaze that swept a three-story building in downtown Minneapolis early today. Four persons were hospitalized in critical condition.

Fire officials said nine others escaped, one by climbing down a rope strung out from a window on the top floor.

The blaze apparently started in a wooden outside stairway on the back, firemen said. The cause was not immediately known. The interior of the second and third floors were destroyed but the first floor was less severely damaged.

A preliminary loss estimate was put at $150,000 but Lee J. Schoephoerster, Fire Department supervisor of investigations.

The building housed three businesses on the first floor and had 33 units of rooms and apartments on the second and third floor. Located in the 200 block of East Hennepin Avenue, it was not far from the Mississippi River, in a section of small businesses and rooming houses.

More Liberal Unemployment Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's signature would give unemployment insurance coverage to 4.7 million more workers and, in times when jobless levels are especially high, lengthen the payment periods for all.

On a 50-19 vote, the Senate completed congressional action on the measure Tuesday, a compromise which the House passed 388-3 on July 23.

The bill had been stalled for three months after Senate-House conferees deleted a provision in the original Senate version which would have made a start on extending coverage to farm workers.

Those voting against the bill Tuesday weren't opposed, but still were trying to send it back to conference to have the farm provision restored.

Superjet Key to Civil Air Supremacy

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam are waging a massive air and ground offensive along 200 miles of the Laotian border trying to block North Vietnamese troops and war supplies destined for South Vietnam and Cambodia.

The South Vietnamese command announced that several thousand troops from its 1st and 2nd infantry divisions and a marine brigade were conducting "several operations" along the border from the demilitarized zone to points southwest of Da Nang.

Other sources reported that U.S. B52 bombing strikes in the Laotian panhandle had been intensified during the past few days.

A spokesman said the ground operations had produced no significant results yet, probably because the monsoon rains in Laos have slowed North Vietnamese activity.

Sources said the South Vietnamese command had no immediate plans to send large ground forces into Laos because the United States fears that might disturb preliminary overtures now under way between the Laotian government and the Pathet Lao.

American sources said some 40 B52s dropped 1,200 tons of bombs during the night on north Vietnamese supply depots along the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos and down to the Cambodian border.

One source said there has been no significant activity in Vietnam since July 1 and there are "no good targets in South Vietnam for the B52s. So they go into Laos to hit supply areas."

Some American troops are involved in the ground offensive though the bulk of the force is South Vietnamese. Troops of the U.S. 186th Light Infantry Brigade were attacked early today at the Kham Duc artillery base 13 miles from the border.

Moving behind a 60-round mortar barrage, about 35 North Vietnamese sappers blasted their way to the base perimeter, triggering a two-hour fight in which 15 North Vietnamese and two Americans were reported killed and 14 Americans wounded. Light material damage also was reported.

Arkansas Weather Hot & Humid

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Continued hot and humid weather with a few afternoon and evening thundershowers is the outlook for Arkansas for the next few days.

Scattered thundershowers fell Tuesday afternoon in portions of Northeast Arkansas with more light rain expected late today.

Harrison received 1½ inches of rain in less than an hour Tuesday along with winds up to 40 miles per hour at times.

Jimmy Whitten needs all the help he can get.

The 21-year-old former Hope resident and Star carrier has had A-plastic anemia, a rare blood disease, for the last ten years. While attending the University of Arkansas as a junior, Jimmy developed pneumonia and complications set in. Jimmy has been confined to the hospital at the University Medical Center in Little Rock for the last 14 weeks.

In order to live, Jimmy must have blood transfusions. His father, N. R. Whitten of Texarkana, formerly of Hope, cannot give blood because of previous illnesses. Mrs. Whitten and the other children who are old enough have already given blood. Jimmy has four brothers and four sisters. One brother, 18, has given platelets from his blood to help improve his brothers condition.

In an effort to help the family financially, Earl Downs and Bill Stewart coordinated a project in which several boys unloaded a car of newspaper for Hope Star and Hope Transfer Co. and donated their earnings to the cause. Roosevelt Ellis assisted the boys and the truck was provided by Bill Stewart of Hope Transfer.

A radiothon also will be conducted on KXAR Saturday, Aug. 8, at 1:30 p.m., for Jimmy's benefit. Many of Jimmy's friends and classmates will be assisting at the studio and in picking up contributions.

Jimmy was graduated in the upper half of his class at Hope High School in 1967 and was a member of the First Baptist Church Sunday School and Training Union and was a Hope cash to the Jimmy Whitten Fund, Star carrier, as well as four brothers, before the family moved to Texarkana two years ago.

Hope Star is contributing $100 and any other checks to this cause may be sent to the newspaper which will turn them over to Bill Stewart and Earl Downs.

Manson's Attorney Is Jailed

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A defense attorney is spending three nights in the same jail as Charles M. Manson, the shaggy-haired clan leader who briefly halted the Sharon Tate murder trial by flashing at the jury a newspaper headline reading: "Manson Guilty, Nixon Declares."

The trial judge ruled attorney Daye Shinn committed "a willful and deliberate contempt" of court by leaving the paper with in Manson's reach at the counsel table. Shinn said he'd done it by mistake.

Manson's move came Tuesday after Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older denied without comment a defense motion for a mistrial based on Nixon's statement—later withdrawn—that Manson was guilty directly or

Huber Runs Close Race With Romney

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lenore Romney held a narrow lead today in her bid for the Republican nomination to the Senate from Michigan, one of four states holding primary elections Tuesday.

Computer troubles in Detroit, where one-fifth of Michigan's voters live, delayed the tabulation of votes—and the outcome. —In Mrs. Romney's race against state Sen. Robert Huber. She is the 61-year-old wife of George Romney, secretary of housing and urban development in President Nixon's Cabinet and a former governor of Michigan.

With 73 per cent of Michigan's 6,044 precincts reporting, the unofficial count was 239,804 for Mrs. Romney and 221,970 for Huber.

In the other three states with primaries Tuesday, the unofficial count showed these results in major races:

Missouri: Sen. Stuart Symington was a landslide victor in his bid for the Democratic nomination to his fourth term in the Senate. His November GOP opponent will be Atty. Gen. John Danforth. All 10 incumbent congressmen—nine Democrats and one Republican—won renomination.

Kansas: Atty. Gen. Kent Frizzell was a runaway winner over four opponents for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and the right to meet incumbent Democrat Robert Docking in November. Docking had no primary opposition. The state's five GOP House members were all renominated.

Idaho: Gov. Don Samuelson won the Republican nomination for a second term, beating Dick Smith of Rexburg. Cecil D. Andrus was nominated by Democrats to oppose Samuelson in November. The state's two congressmen, both Republicans, were unopposed in the primary. Mrs. Romney was picked as Michigan Republicans' "consensus" candidate at the party's March convention.

The court said Tuesday it would consider the request next month.

Mrs. Capogrossi's age was not given.

32 Dead, 200 Million Loss in 'Celia'

By PAUL REGER
Associated Press Writer

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Estimates of damage reared $300 million today in Texas' Coastal Bend vacation area in the wake of Hurricane Celia. The storm claimed 32 lives, 13 in Texas.

Figures kept mounting on death and destruction from the effects of Celia's blows in the Corpus Christi area and northward into Mexico, where the storm finally beat itself out Tuesday.

Five persons perished as the storm battered across Cuba and 14 drowned in Florida waters turned turbulent by the storm's passage through the Gulf of Mexico.

With damage to more than three-fourths of the buildings and houses in Corpus Christi and dozens of neighboring towns, officials tentatively put the property damage total around $233 million. Crop losses were estimated at nearly $60 million.

Winds ranged up to 160 miles per hour, the Weather Bureau said, as Celia surged ashore Monday across Corpus Christi Bay. Before crossing the international border to hit Mexico's mountains, it still packed winds as high as 89 m.p.h. The big storm dealt lessening blows as far as 250 miles inland.

However, Celia brought rains amounting to less than nine inches along the watershed of

Embassy Fears Safety of 2 Kidnapped

By ANIBAL ARGUELLO
Associated Press Writer

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The U.S. Embassy says it fears for the safety of two kidnapped foreign officials—one an American—because of the Uruguayan government's refusal so far to negotiate with their guerrilla captors.

An Interior Ministry communique Monday rejected a demand by the Tupamaro rebels for the release of an estimated 150 imprisoned members of the organization as ransom for Daniel A. Mitrone, 50, an American aid adviser to the Uruguayan police, and Brazilian consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41.

The communique said Tupamaros held by the government are not political prisoners but are members of a "criminal organization."

But Carlos Giambruno, a Foreign Ministry official, said the government had not decided whether to negotiate with the kidnapers. He said a decision should be made by Wednesday.

The Tupamaros have made no threats against the two men they seized Friday and have set no deadline for fulfillment of their demand that all political prisoners be given safe conduct to Mexico, Peru or Algeria. But a U.S. Embassy spokesman said the government's communique caused anxiety and fear for the fate of Mitrone and Dias Gomide.

The U.S. State Department requested that the guerrillas release the American at once so he could be given hospital treatment for a chest wound he got in the abduction. The department said Mitrone is allergic to penicillin and needs special care to prevent infection.

Security forces continued the search for Mitrone, Dias Gomide and for Criminal Court Judge Daniel Pereira Manelli, who was kidnapped last Tuesday. Police raided a suspected guerrilla hideout Monday night, arrested four men and a woman and confiscated arms and ammunition. But they found no trace of the captives.

More than 100 persons have been arrested since the search began.
